The sanctuaries of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches of Painted Post, around the corner from one another, were damaged so badly in the 1972 flood that they had to be replaced. The two congregations chose to build a shared building – and the rest is history.

The United Church of Painted Post (UCPP) is a unique Methodist/ Presbyterian federation where we aim to extend a warm and friendly welcome to everyone who worships with us. Our mission is “to know Jesus Christ, to make Him known, and to serve others in His Love.” We are “called to be a loving, caring, faithful family of spirit-filled Christians devoted to the study and sharing of God’s word,...joyful in worship, constant in prayer, open in fellowship,” and “with other churches, reaching out to the community and the world in the name of Christ.”

The church building erected in 1842 boasted a clock in its tower which became the chief public clock in town and the bell served as a fire bell for a period. When the present church was built in 1867, the bell from the old church was moved to the new, where it still hangs. For 150 years it has called the people to worship at God's house.

We are a community journeying to live as disciples of Jesus, practice hospitality in community, and bring hope through worship, fellowship and service.
